HOW THIS LEARNER WORKBOOK IS COMPILED

This learner workbook has been compiled for personnel to identify, handle and defuse security related conflict between members of the public and security personnel with minimum use of force in the workplace.

1. Identify conflict situations
2. Handle and defuse conflict situation
3. Provide feedback on conflict situation

You have to study the content and guidelines given in your learner reference guide to complete this workbook.

Remember that this completed workbook must be handed in as it will form part of your formative assessment and will play a role in awarding you the required credits that are to be achieved upon completion of this module.

Write neatly and legibly and ensure that you do not simply copy the information contained in the learner reference guide into your workbook. Give your own opinion and ideas where applicable and write the answers in your own words to indicate your level of understanding and learning.

Good luck with the completion of this workbook.

LEARNING UNIT 1

Identify conflict

- ♦ Define conflict.
- ♦ Demonstrate knowledge of the common causes of conflict in the workplace.
- ♦ Distinguish between the concepts of competition and conflict.
- ♦ Demonstrate knowledge of the different types of power present during a conflict situation.
- ♦ Demonstrate knowledge and skills to identify the various signs of conflict.
- ♦ Identify different types of conflict.
- ♦ Demonstrate knowledge and skills to identify the stages of conflict.
- ♦ Explain the responses of people to conflict.
- ♦ Explain managerial actions that causes conflict

LEARNER ACTIVITY 1 (PAGE 13)Define the word conflict within the workplace.

Conflict may be defined as a struggle or contest between people with opposing needs, ideas, beliefs, values, or goals. Conflict on teams is inevitable; however, the results of conflict are not predetermined. Conflict might escalate and lead to nonproductive results, or conflict can be beneficially resolved and lead to quality final products.

LEARNER ACTIVITY 2 (Page 13)Explain the causes of conflict with a specific reference to power.

Causes or sources of organizational conflict can be many and varied. The most common causes are the following:

- ♦ Scarcity of resources (finance, equipment, facilities, etc)
- ♦ Different attitudes, values or perceptions
- ♦ Disagreements about needs, goals, priorities and interests
- ♦ Poor communication
- ♦ Poor or inadequate organizational structure
- ♦ Lack of teamwork
- ♦ Lack of clarity in roles and responsibilities

Power is the ability or capacity to do something or to control and influence what others do.

LEARNER ACTIVITY 3 (Page 15)Explain the differences between competition and conflict.

Competition" usually brings out the best in people, as they strive to be top in their field, whether in sport, community affairs, politics or work. In fact, fair and friendly competition often leads to new sporting achievements, scientific inventions or outstanding effort in solving a community problem. When competition becomes unfriendly or bitter, though, conflict can begin - and this can bring out the worst in people.

LEARNER ACTIVITY 4 (Page 16)

Identify four types of conflict. Provide a practical example of each.

- ♦ Where potential for conflict exists: In other words where people recognize that lack of resources, diversity of language or culture may possible result in conflict if people are not sensitive to the diversity.
- ♦ Latent conflict where a competitive situation could easily spill over into conflict: At a political rally or in the workplace where there are obvious differences between groups of people.
- ♦ Open conflict: Which can be triggered by an incident and suddenly become real conflict.
- ♦ Aftermath conflict: The situation where a particular problem may have been resolved but the potential for conflict still exists. In fact the potential may be even greater than before, if one person or group perceives itself as being involved in a win-loose situation.

[illegible]Comments in support of decision

LEARNER ACTIVITY 5 (Page 16)Explain the stages of conflict.*♦ Pre-conflict

DIFFERENCES: Discussions and differences can be healthy and productive if met with tolerance.

TENSIONS: Views become fixed and people begin to criticize their opponents and view them as the enemy. Differences between the groups get worse. The groups become more divided.

♦ Confrontation

DISPUTES: Neither side will admit that they have made mistakes. They become determined. More extreme positions are taken. Threats are made but not carried out. Supporters may engage in demonstrations or other confrontational behaviour.

♦ Crisis

Peak of conflict with open hostility and/or violence.
Communication between sides often stops.

HOSTILITIES: People become convinced that their views are right. Opponents are mocked, scorned and isolated. Some threats are carried out.

VIOLENCE: 'No way back'. 'They must lose'. Force is used, perhaps physical violence.

♦ Outcome

Force may run its course until one party 'wins', another surrenders, a cease-fire is agreed, or all are exhausted. Outsiders may intervene with force to bring violence to a halt.

♦ Post-conflict

End of violent confrontation:

When one side 'wins', it may not lead to positive change. It may create new injustices which could result in confrontation (Stage 2) once again.

♦ Communication channels opened

Both sides agree that a solution is needed. Outsiders may help both sides to communicate. Ways to move forward are established.

♦ Mutual understanding

People come to understand views of others and respect them. The conflicts described (sometimes mapped) to help find possible solutions.

♦ Finding solutions

An approach is found that every-one agrees on, whether this uses the law, customary methods or partnership. Solutions are agreed and acted upon.

♦ Agreement

Everyone agrees. They may agree to keep different views but always accept the views of others. It may be helpful to have a written and signed agreement for future reference.

LEARNER ACTIVITY 6 (page 20)How should a security officer respond when a co-worker confronts him/her.

- ♦ NDIFFERENCE: If people feel that both their goals and relationships are not important, they might simply stay out of the conflict. They might feel the conflict is none of their business. On the other hand, they might feel their involvement will make no difference.
- ♦ GIVING IN: People give in if they place great importance on their relationships with others and little upon their goals. They want peace at all costs. To be accepted and liked by other people is most important. Conflicts may disappear just because someone stays friendly. But giving in may also mean keeping silent about the real issues and hurts.
- ♦ FORCING: People who overpower their opponents have a low regard for other people. They do not place much value on relationships with others. Winning is part of the goal. Some people use force because they are used to being on top or because they do not want to admit that they might be wrong. What they do not see is that by winning, they are forcing others to lose and that they might only stop the conflict for a short time.
- ♦ COMPROMISING: People compromise if they know they will not achieve all their goals. They negotiate, bargain and promote relationships without it costing either side too much. They see the need for both sides to gain something. But sometimes the result is that everyone feels the outcome is unsatisfactory or that neither side is committed to the solution.
- ♦ CO-OPERATING: For these people, relationships and goals are important. They believe that people can find new and imaginative solutions to conflict that lead to both sides winning. When conflicting groups sit down together to discuss their goals, they often realize that their goals have changed. Perhaps they did not look at the long term. Or perhaps they came to see that everyone gained more by working as partners, not opponents.

LEARNER ACTIVITY 7 (Page 34—35)Explain the actions that a manager can take during a confrontation.

- ♦ Use "I" statements:
- ♦ Be assertive, not aggressive:
- ♦ speak calmly, coolly and rationally:
- ♦ Avoid blaming:
- ♦ Create an atmosphere of healing:
- ♦ Be willing to forgive:
- ♦ Be willing to forget:
- ♦ Be honest:
- ♦ Focus on feelings rather than on content:
- ♦ Show respect for yourself and for others:

LEARNING UNIT 2

Manage conflict

- ♦ Explain different conflict management styles.
- ♦ Identify the correct scenario where to apply the most correct and effective conflict management style.
- ♦ Explain the concept Conflict life cycle.
- ♦ Compare violence and conflict by identifying each in a workplace conflict scenario.
- ♦ Apply the correct conflict resolution strategy to handle and defuse conflict.
- ♦ Explain behaviour which can help managing conflict.
- ♦ Apply the correct steps to handle conflict by hand of a workplace scenario.

LEARNER ACTIVITY 1 (Page 25)Explain the different management styles to deal with conflict.

Five combinations of these two variables determine five Conflict Management Styles

- ♦ Competitive Style: If you have this style you focus on your interests and you totally neglect the other's interests. You are ready to win at all costs. Relationships are not important for you, just achieving your goal. Means are not important for you, just achieving your goal. You may attack the other person with criticism, put-downs, name-calling or violence.
- ♦ Accommodating Style: This style is the opposite of the Competitive style: you focus on achieving the other's goal and totally neglect your own goal. Relations with the other party are more important than winning. You seek an agreement at almost any cost, offering concessions in order to preserve (or create) a good relationship with the other side.
- ♦ Avoiding Style: If you have this style you have a low focus on goals as well as on relations. You avoid or pretend the conflict does not exist, even if you will not achieve your goals or will damage your relations with the other party.
- ♦ Compromise Style: If you have this style you win something from what you wanted and give-up something else, by dividing and sharing. Of course, you have limits of how much you are willing to give away.
- ♦ Collaborative (Cooperative) Style: If you use this style you give high importance at the same time to goals and relations. Cooperative style involves full and open communication: you are attentive to the other, you are waiting to respond, and you make helpful suggestions. Is the most difficult and time-consuming approach, but has the best results if both parties use this style.

LEARNER ACTIVITY 2

Consider the following short scenarios relating to work and social problems.

Write your answer in the provided space below when you have Answered all scenarios try to identify:

- ♦ Potential reasons for conflict.
- ♦ Your initial reaction and solution.
- ♦ Other information you might require
- ♦ Possible alternative solutions.

Conflict –Scenario 1:

You have been employed as a security officer at the same site for 4 years. You are well respected and do a good job. A new supervisor has recently been appointed whom you have to work with. They are continually re-organising the section, re-prioritizing work which you have allocated and questioning your judgment openly.

Conflict –Scenario 2:

Following a restructuring exercise after losing a contract of a site you are re-employed. You are now working with 2 other officers who have been working at this site (new) for some time. The staff do not mix, they do not share information and are quietly hostile to each other. The quality of work leaving the site is suffering.

[illegible]

LEARNER ACTIVITY 3 (Page 27)

Explain the conflict life cycle by using scenario 1 in learning activity 2.

Conflict escalates from early signs to violence much easier than de-escalates after violence occurred. Very rarely conflicts go from early stages into violent stages suddenly. They are gradually going through stages that can be recognized as steps toward violence.

The early signs are non-verbal, attitudes and behaviors that express parties' disagreements and frustrations. If parties are aware and recognize them, the issues can be discussed, clarified and solved.

If not addressed, the tension rises and parties may express verbally their feelings and positions during disputes. If parties are open to hear each other and communicate effectively, the issues can be discussed, clarified and solved.

If Conflict is not solved the tension may continue to rise. Communication between parties becomes more difficult. Conflict expands involving more issues and more persons or organizations that take the side of one party or the other. Parties become polarized, focused on achieving their own goals and deaf and blind toward the other's goals. They may try again to solve their dispute and sit down at the negotiation table.

If they fail to solve the conflict the situation could worsen. Parties arrive at the level of segregation, when communication is broken, and they cannot anymore talk to each other. In this stage, a third part intervener, mediator, facilitator, arbitrator or judge can help solve the conflict with peaceful means. As we move from mediation toward the judicial system the chance to improve relationships is decreasing. But at least violence is not used to achieve goals.

If peaceful means fail the situation can get more and more tense and the conflict is heading toward violent outbreak. Extremists who are better prepared and organized to fight aggressively for their goals usually grab the leadership. Additional grievances are raised. Parties begin to view each other as less than human, thus not deserving human treatment. Dehumanization makes possible for parties to engage in violence, to hurt each other and to violate the generally accepted norms of behavior regarding one's fellow man

LEARNER ACTIVITY 4 (Page 28)Explain the effects of violence in a conflict scenario.

Violence is only a conflict manifestation, when its intensity is the highest, emotions are strongest and rationality lowest.

- ♦ If human basic needs are left unattended by cynical actors or bad structures.
- ♦ If the culture glorifies violence and justifies revenge (violence as a compensation to violence)

Comments in support of decision

LEARNER ACTIVITY 5 (Page 34)

Identify and use at least four types of behaviour which will ultimately help and assist you in managing conflict within the workplace.

- ♦ Use "I" statements: Let the other party know how you feel when the conflict is occurring. Let the other person know how you react to the conflict. Let the other person know which of your rights you feel is being ignored in the conflict.
- ♦ Be assertive, not aggressive: Speak about your feelings and your reactions. Keep the statements focused on how you are behaving, thinking, and feeling rather than on how the other is acting.
- ♦ Speak calmly, coolly and rationally: In this way you will be listened to, and you will be able to maintain better control of yourself. Otherwise the other person may be put in a defensive attitude.
- ♦ Avoid blaming: This will keep the communication flow going. It encourages understanding and empathy for each other's feelings. It recognizes that for a conflict to exist there must be at least two parties who are adversely affected by the conflict.
- ♦ Create an atmosphere of healing: In an attempt to heal the wounds resulting from a conflict, all parties involved must feel that they are being listened to and understood; that their rights are being respected. They must feel the desire to work things out and a commitment to the process of working out the problems. They must feel wanted and cared for by the parties involved.
- ♦ Be willing to forgive: Forgiveness is a powerful tool of healing. You have a chance for personal growth by forgiving others for their part in the hurt and pain you suffered. At times, this is the only way to resolve a conflict.
- ♦ Be willing to forget: Once you have "resolved" a conflict and felt like you were listened to, cared for, and understood, then "let go" of the conflict. Once you have implemented an agreed resolution, put aside the conflict. Put it behind you. Get it out of your mind. Forget it. Don't bring it up in the future as if it had not been resolved. If you write down the resolution of the conflict, you will have written proof that it is over and is to be forgotten.
- ♦ Be honest: In resolving a conflict it is imperative that you be honest with yourself and others about your feelings, and reactions to the conflict and to the resolutions. If you are feeling in a way you think you must, or in a way the others wants you to, not "being yourself," then the resolution of the conflict is a false one. The conflict is sure to recur. You gain nothing by being dishonest in the management of conflict. You waste your time and energy and end up feeling failure or guilt rather than growth.

- ♦ Focus on feelings rather than on content: Effective listening and responding are key elements in the productive resolution of conflict. Listen for the feelings and emotions of the other and reflect them with empathy and understanding. This creates an atmosphere of being cared for and listened to. It reduces defensiveness. It focuses on the process involved rather than on the issues, and it brings the parties to a clearer recognition of their individuality and humanity. To focus on feelings clarify the issues, eliminating extraneous items.
- ♦ Show respect for yourself and for others: You will gain more in resolving a conflict by showing respect (honey), than by showing disrespect (vinegar), e.g., being vindictive, taking revenge, threatening, yelling, accusing, belittling, ostracizing, ignoring. If you are on the receiving end of disrespect, remove yourself as soon as possible. When the other has cooled down, perhaps the discussion can be continued in a respectful manner. If you lose your "cool" and become disrespectful, stop as soon as you can by either removing yourself or by silencing yourself. Maintaining a respectful atmosphere is essential in resolving conflict.
- ♦ Be willing to apologize or admit a mistake: It is necessary to admit to one's mistake and to apologize for one's behavior before a stalemate in conflict resolution can be overcome. It takes courage, character, and fortitude to admit an error: a lack of judgment; an uncalled for action; disrespectful behavior; or a lack of caring, concern, or understanding. Stronger relationships can result when such willingness is exhibited.
- ♦ Be willing to compromise: If you cling to your position as the only one to be considered, you are closing out the other person(s). To succeed in resolving conflict, all parties must feel like they have gained in the resolution. In order to resolve a conflict where the opposing parties are at opposite extremes on an issue, there is a need to come to the middle if all are to experience a "winning" posture. Only through compromise can each be a winner in conflict resolution. Without compromise, you have either given in and lost, or have gotten your own way with the other party having lost. Ideally, all parties should feel that they have won.

LEARNING UNIT 3

Workplace Procedures

LEARNING OUTCOMES

A learning credited with this unit will be able to:

1. identify the correct workplace procedure to follow in the event of the following Scenarios
 - ♦ Dealing with difficult people
 - ♦ Dealing with angry and aggressive people
 - ♦ Dealing with alcoholics and drug addict
2. Explain the use of force when:
 - ♦ Removing a suspect/person from a site
 - ♦ Physical restraining techniques are used
3. Conduct a threat assessment before confronting a person
4. Explain the responses of individuals after a threat assessment
5. Explain the concept of good communication skills during the process of defusing conflict

Explain four guidelines to follow when dealing with a difficult person during a conflict situation.

- ♦ Stop and think before you say anything: This is good advice no matter what the situation. When you feel attacked the first thing that pops into your head is seldom the most effective response. If you make it a practice to wait twenty-four hours before you answer criticisms the people around you may be so surprised by your maturity and reasonableness that they will listen to you for a change.
- ♦ Listen carefully: Every criticism contains useful information as well as an attack. If you don't hear anything useful at first, keep listening until you do.
- ♦ Ask for advice rather than giving answers: The explanations you think of will sound perfectly reasonable and at least 150% correct. To you. To other people they will sound like a misguided defense against a misperceived personal attack. Most any explanation you choose will make you look even more wrong. Trust me on this. If, by sheer force of reason, your explanation actually succeeds in getting the criticism modified or withdrawn, it may feel like you've won, but it probably means that people have decided it's easier to humor you than treat you like a rational human being.
- ♦ What if you have to criticize someone who takes things too personally? Structure the situation so that he or she doesn't have to admit wrongdoing by accepting what you have to say. In Asia they'd call it allowing the person to save face. Make it clear in your comments that you understand how a reasonable and honorable person might do what he or she did. Direct your advice toward improving the situation rather than pointing out mistakes. Focus on what you want to happen rather than what's wrong with what has already happened. Come to think of it, this is a good way to present criticism to anyone, because you never know who's going to take it personally.

In your own words, explain the recommended behaviour to deal with angry people.

- ♦ ASK FOR A MINUTE TO STOP AND THINK: This will have a calming effect on you and the customer. No one will get angrier at you for asking for time to think things over.
- ♦ KNOW YOUR GOAL: The dinosaur's rules are simple, if attacked, fight back or run away. Either response will make the situation worse. Try instead to help your customer calm down and use the part of the brain that can reason.
- ♦ IF THE OTHER PERSON IS YELLING, don't DO ANYTHING UNTIL YOU GET HIM OR HER TO STOP: Just keeping your own voice soft may do the trick. Saying "Please speak more slowly. I'd like to help," works particularly well on the phone. Have you ever tried to yell slowly? On the phone remember the "Uh-huh" rule. We usually respond with "Uh-huh" when the other person takes a breath. If you go three breaths without saying "Uh-huh" the other person will stop and ask, "Are you there?" Following this technique will allow you to interrupt without saying a word.
- ♦ DO NOT EXPLAIN! Explanations are all too often a disguised form of fighting back or running away. The typical explanation boils down to: "If you know all the facts, you will see that I am right and you are wrong." You cannot be right and effective at the same time. don't even try.
- ♦ LET THE CUSTOMER KNOW YOU HEAR: Before you try to solve the problem, let the customer know that you understand why he or she is upset. This will save you from having to hear it again.
- ♦ ASK, "WHAT WOULD YOU LIKE ME TO DO?" This question is usually the last thing an angry person expects. Hell have to stop and think to answer. This is exactly what you want.
- ♦ NEGOTIATE: It's a lot easier when the customer is using the part of her brain you can negotiate with.

LEARNER ACTIVITY 3 (Page 45)

During a conflict situation where lots of angry and difficult people awaiting to cause chaos it is important to conduct a threat assessment.

In Your own words explain how would you conduct that threat assessment, and if necessary how would you use necessary force to relief people from the site.

Any suspect potentially can be assaultive and use deadly force. However, approaching every suspect in a high-risk mode (e.g., firearm drawn) would be unreasonable. There can be many articulable facts that support threat assessment.

Some of the facts used in this judgment decision are;

- ♦ Physical actions
- ♦ Suspect statements and/or spontaneous utterances
- ♦ Suspicion level - Some or Mere/Reasonable/Probable Cause
- ♦ Time of day
- ♦ Number of officers/suspects
- ♦ Size & ability of officers/suspects
- ♦ Prior history/Criminal History
- ♦ Officer's experiences
- ♦ Age - Officer vs. Suspect
- ♦ Visible awareness - visible weapons/unusual bulges/unusual nervousness/hands in view
- ♦ Frailness of suspect
- ♦ Physical/mental disability of suspect

Some of the facts above can be aggravating or mitigating.

Before physical action by an aggressor occurs, that individual usually begins to threaten to attack, in an attempt to intimidate the opponent, through a process sometimes called posturing, ritualized combat, or affective aggression.

These “pre-assault indicators” are listed below.

- ♦ Verbal aggression: yelling, swearing, etc.
- ♦ A change in posture: stands taller, sets head and shoulders, moves away/moves closer, points, forms fist and/or loads the arm.
- ♦ Face becomes red, lips separate to show teeth, breathing becomes faster, and perspiration appears on the skin. • Individual ignores others, looks away or stares through people.
- ♦ Creates a false sense of security by becoming very cooperative or acting incapacitated.
- ♦ Aggression redirected to something/someone else, such as breaking pencils, kicking, chairs, yelling at bystanders
- ♦ Individual's stance changes - blades body, lowers center of gravity, shifts weight. Lips become tight as breathing, though still rapid, deepens. The face loses its flush to become pale.
- ♦ Hands tighten, open or closed, arms and shoulders will shift.
- ♦ Individual may bob or rock while shifting eyes to possible targets. Individual may stop all motion in defiance.
- ♦ Head will come down, chin tucked, eyebrows tightened and dropped.

[illegible]

LEARNER ACTIVITY 4 (Page 47—48)List four responses during a threat assessment.

- ♦ Field Interview Stance
- ♦ Low Ready Position

LEARNER ACTIVITY 5 (Page 49)Explain how verbalizing can help you when communicating with people during conflict

The goals of verbal communication for the officer are to direct, to control, and to gather information. Officers should make every effort to de-escalate situations by voice commands and by asking for cooperation. The words used and the tone of voice must convey the message the officer wants to send. Eliminate barriers to communication. When giving directions, keep it simple.

The learner must make use of the following self-evaluation checklist to rate himself against the learning outcomes of this particular training module in establishing the level of mastery of the information.

LEARNING UNIT 4

Report writing

LEARNING OUTCOMES

A learning credited with this unit will be able to:

1. Understand and describe the various components of a report
2. Write a report that will meet all the requirements of a good report
3. Submit a report for feedback purposes to all the relevant role players

LEARNER ACTIVITY 1

The definition of a report in your Learning guide does not address the attached example of a report.

(Own address)
SL LEGAU
SECURITY TEAM LEADER
EMI MINING CC.
LOSS CONTROL DEPARTMENT

(Date must always be included) 12/05/2005

(Report Addresses to)

MR V KHETANI
REGIONAL MANAGER
EMI MINING CC.
PARKTOWN

An address always contains the following detail:

1. Name and surname
2. Title and/or Rank
3. Place, area or company where employed

HEADING:

Each report must have a heading that gives a brief descriptive explanation of the report that is to follow. A heading normally does not consist of more than 3 to 4 words that can be supported by a date, serial no., etc. Following are a few examples:

Fence irregularity
Keys left in vehicle
Defective access control system
Hole in roof

INTRODUCTION

Before starting to write the report it will be necessary to give basic background information as to the relevance of the report that is to follow. Such an introduction may even consist of a reference to a previous report. It may sometimes be necessary to give a brief explanation on the action that is to be reported. Following is an example:

A report was submitted by me on 21/08/96 in which I indicated that there is a hole in the fence at the northern side of the factory. Similar reports was lodged on 27/08/96, 06/09/96. Whilst patrolling the fence on 21/09/96 I found that the it has as yet not been repaired, etc.

BODY

A heading is also to be used to indicate that the actual report is going to follow. The writer must ensure that all the information and detail previously explained in this module is contained in the report. It is sometimes necessary to include a possible solution as to what is expected.

CONSEQUENCES/MOTIVATION

Following the description of the incident it may sometimes be necessary to express your concern as to what the consequences of such an incident may be. This part of the request may also include a motivation with regards to the report that was submitted. In general it can be said that this section is the part where you are going to support whatever was reported and/or suggested.

SUMMARY

All the facts are briefly summarised and the writer normally asks for feedback, follow up, etc, in this section.

ENDING

On completion of any report the writer will write down his name, title or rank and sign the report which will automatically authenticate and validate the report, e.g.

FJH Zungu
SECURITY SUPERVISOR (EFG BOXING)

LEARNER ACTIVITY 2

For this activity you need to write a report based on the instructions below.

Abdul is employed as an access control officer with “Tiger wheel and tyre” He has developed significant knowledge and expertise in electronic access control Systems, largely through on-the-job experience and training.

Abdul is very popular with staff and whilst on his rounds trouble-shooting, will chat to colleagues about problems with their home alarm and security systems.

In his spare time Abdul occasionally assists his friend Mimi with her business installing and selling second-hand alarms and systems. He does not get paid for this maintenance work but is remunerated for every new customer he brings to the business.

Instructions:

- 1. You must make your own assumptions regarding the missing details. As a colleague you suspected Abdul using company tools for private installations and parts which he have taken from the store room to assist his friend.
- ♦ Write a report to your manager Mr. I Kgabago and tell him of your suspicion.
